THE COMMUNITY

Hanover County (population 116,423 as of July 1, 2025) offers a distinctive combination of history, community character, economic strength, and opportunity. Established in 1720, the County encompasses approximately 468 square miles, including established suburban communities, growing commercial corridors, the Town of Ashland, and expansive rural areas. Hanover's population has grown approximately 5.9% since 2020, reflecting its continued appeal as a place to live, work, raise a family, and invest.

Hanover's identity is deeply connected to its history and traditions. The County is the birthplace of Patrick Henry, one of the most influential Founding Fathers and Virginia's first governor. Prior to English colonization in the 17th century, the Pamunkey Indians populated the area and today their reservation is located on the Pamunkey River, the County's northern boundary, in neighboring King William County. Historic communities, landmarks, and sites throughout Hanover reflect more than three centuries of Virginia and American history. Generations of families have maintained strong ties to the area, contributing to a sense of community that values both progress and preservation.

Hanover enjoys a strategic location within the Richmond metropolitan area and along the East Coast. Interstate 95 bisects the County, while Interstate 295 provides convenient regional access. U.S. Routes 1, 33, 301, and 360 further connect Hanover to surrounding communities. Richmond International Airport is easily accessible, and the County's location provides convenient connections to Washington, D.C., Northern Virginia, Virginia's coastal communities, and other major Mid-Atlantic markets.

The County benefits from a strong and diverse economy supported by health care, education, manufacturing, distribution and logistics, professional services, retail, tourism, and other industries. Major employers and institutions include Bon Secours Memorial Regional Medical Center, Randolph-Macon College, Kings Dominion, Wegmans, Carter Machinery, and numerous distribution, manufacturing, and professional service operations.

Hanover offers a quality of life that combines suburban convenience, small-town character, and rural landscapes. Residents enjoy parks and recreational amenities, historic sites, cultural attractions, health care, and highly regarded public schools, while remaining within easy reach of the employment, dining, arts, entertainment, and cultural opportunities of the Richmond metropolitan area.

Perhaps most distinctive is Hanover's strong sense of community. Residents are engaged in the life of the County, with deep connections to its history and traditions and an abiding commitment to its quality of life. As Hanover continues to grow and embrace new opportunities, preservation of the County's community character remains the highest priority.

ABOUT HANOVER COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Hanover County operates under the traditional form of county government. The seven-member Board of Supervisors serves as the governing body of the County, establishing policy, adopting an annual budget, enacting ordinances, and making decisions on land use and other matters affecting the community. The Board also serves as the appointing authority for the County Administrator, County Attorney, Chief Assessor, and Director of Internal Audit. The County Administrator serves as the chief executive of County government and is responsible for implementing Board policies and overseeing the day-to-day operations of the organization.

Hanover County has a long-standing tradition of deliberate, fiscally disciplined governance, with an emphasis on responsible growth, effective stewardship of public resources, and preserving the qualities that residents value about the community. Board members, the County Administrator, County Attorney and other County leaders work together to ensure the organization is strong and well-run.

For Fiscal Year 2027, Hanover County operates with an adopted budget of approximately $797 million across all funds. The County's strong financial position—evidenced by its quad-AAA bond rating—reflects a long-standing commitment to fiscal discipline and maintenance of a competitive tax structure.

As Hanover continues to grow and evolve, County leaders are navigating increasingly complex issues while preserving the history, traditions, quality of life, and community character that residents value. Development and infrastructure needs, changing service expectations, workforce considerations, and emerging legal and governmental issues require thoughtful decision-making, collaboration across County leadership, sound stewardship of public resources, and a commitment to responsive and effective public service.

ABOUT HANOVER COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Hanover County Public Schools (HCPS) is an award-winning school division serving approximately 17,000 students in Pre-K through grade 12 across 24 schools. The division has a long-standing record of academic excellence and continues to rank among Virginia's highest-performing school systems.

The operation of public schools in the County is vested in a 7-member School Board, the members of which are appointed by the Board of Supervisors. Operations of the School Board are independent of the Board of Supervisors and County administration as prescribed by Virginia law. A superintendent is appointed by the School Board to administer the operations of the County's public schools.

All HCPS schools are fully accredited by the Virginia Department of Education. For the Class of 2025, the division achieved a 95.2% on-time graduation rate, exceeding the statewide rate of 92.7% and marking the 13th consecutive year that Hanover's graduation rate exceeded 95%. HCPS students also outperformed statewide averages in reading, mathematics, science, and history during the 2024-25 school year, while leading the Metro Richmond region across all four content areas. Sixty-five percent of HCPS graduates earned advanced diplomas, compared with 50% statewide.

Students have access to a broad range of advanced academic and career-focused opportunities. The International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Program is available at all four high schools, along with Advanced Placement courses, dual enrollment opportunities, and extensive career and technical education programming. HCPS offers nearly 100 career and technical education options, including programs through The Hanover Center for Trades and Technology and The Specialty Center at Hanover High School.

HCPS' record of achievement extends beyond student performance. Ten division schools have earned National Blue Ribbon School of Excellence awards, and Hanover was the first Virginia school division to receive the U.S. Senate Productivity and Quality Award for Continuing Excellence. In 2025, Hanover was also recognized as a "Best Community for Music Education" for the 13th consecutive year.
